4th February 2017

Growing clinical use of cryopreservation has opened up new perspectives in in-vitro fertilization treatments with gamete, particularly oocyte, donation. This in turn helps the transfer of gametes between European countries with different legislation.

The network of players between gamete cryobanks and final users pushes back the frontier for sharing gamete donation services.

In this event, for the first time, scientists, gamete cryobanks, courier companies, national authorities and IVF centres can come together to discuss hot topics in human gamete donation.

COURSE DESIGN

One-day scientific meeting

TARGET AUDIENCE

This meeting is aimed particularly at Embryologists, Gynaecologists, IVF centre and laboratory Directors. More in general, the event is dedicated to all the operators involved in human gamete donation.
